

Sandra Lucía Rodríguez Rojas was appointed Vice President of Sustainable Territorial Development in October 2023. She has a law degree from Universidad Javeriana, as well as a master's degree in environmental policy and management and a master's degree in public law from Universidad Carlos III in Madrid. Ms. Rodríguez is also a Professor of the Legal Sciences Faculty at the Universidad Javeriana. She has over 20 years of experience in project management, focusing on public and private sector human rights, social responsibility and environmental sustainability projects, following international standards. In 2018, she took on the role of Delegate Ombudsman for Collective Rights and the Environment of the Ombudsman's Office.